John O'Brien is a pioneer and lifelong advocate of person centred planning and inclusion. His work has inspired all those working and living in a way that challenges service-centred practices and values.

He will lead a day of mindful learning about how we can listen for a person's capacity, seek ways of enabling the everyday sharing of ordinary places, choice making, experiencing of respect and belonging, and creatively finding ways to overcome barriers that prevent people from contributing their gifts and abilities to the community.
